A Hamilton, Ohio, dispatch says: An aged couple arrived in this city Friday night in a covered spring wagon, with their chattels and apparel at the station house for lodging for the night. The old gentleman gave his name as Benjamin Smith and his age as eighty-four years. He was accompanied by his wife, seventy-four years of age, totally blind and very peevish. They had traveled from Wheeling, W. Va., and were en route to Dayton in search of relatives with whom they expect to end their declining years. Mr. Smith was a resident of this city fifty years ago and was engaged in horse and cattle trading. He lived at the hostelry now known as the Mason house, when it was kept by Benjamin Hasey. The son with whom the couple will reside offered to defray their expenses of $150 by rail, but the old people preferred to take the old-fashioned and slow overland route in a wagon. At this place the wagon collapsed.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Eloquent Lecture by John R. Clarke Last Night

AT THE Y. M. C. A. HALL.

Was Heard by a Large and Appreciative Audience—A High Tribute Paid the Great American—The Self-Sacrificing Devotion to God and Country that Characterized the Martyred President—Incidents of the Great Civil War Recalled.

The first lecture of the Y. M. C. A. course was given last evening to a large and select audience by John R. Clarke, of Buffalo, whose subject was, "Abraham Lincoln."

He began by saying that public lecturers are in the habit of taking some great subject, "but we simply intend to spend our time to-night in studying the character of the greatest American either living or dead."

Many great events have happened in America. The landing of the pilgrims was a great event. Later on another great event took place, the signing of the Declaration of Independence. All the men identified with the signing of this great document were great men. Webster and Blaine were great men, but he expected to prove that greater than all these was Abraham Lincoln. He was born in the same year that Gladstone was born, the same day on which Darwin was born. While it seems that it is impossible to tell anything new concerning this mighty man, still Mr. Clarke clothes in such beautiful language the old truths, that it seems as though they had never been told before. One point made was that it was a great blessing that Lincoln was poor—he enjoyed the great blessing of having to do the drudgery that the poor have to undergo.

Abraham Lincoln was a great story teller. He had marvellous adaptability in all his stories. The speaker referred to quite a number of these stories in an inimitable way. He spoke of the tenderness of Lincoln in listening to the pleas of the poor who came during the dark days of the great war to ask favors for loved ones who in some way had gotten into trouble. He had a strong will when necessary, but he was all tenderness when he could do anything for the suffering; when aroused he was a lion. He was the typified statesman. Once he said that he would like to see the fires in every furnace, and the smoke issuing from every chimney; then the rainbow of the nation's prosperity would rest over it. William McKinley could not beat that.

He was a natural orator. His speech at Gettysburg is the greatest piece of oratory ever constructed. He was a Christian; he was honest; he was gifted in Bible doctrine. Napoleon, the greatest general of the times, exalted himself and forgot God. Abraham Lincoln, the greatest President of the greatest nation in existence, forgot himself and exalted God. He was a temperance man all his life.

The lecture was one of the finest word paintings that has been heard in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Such lectures cannot fail to uplift all who hear them. The lecturer will be welcomed at any time by the same audience.

Jackson-Jeffers Nuptials.

Last evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. Francis Jackson and Miss Annie Lee Jeffers were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents at No. 129 Sixteenth street. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. L. Sooy, pastor of the Fourth Street M. E. church, and was witnessed by only the immediate relatives of the young couple. Mr. Jackson is well known in the city and is book-keeper for G. K. McMechen & Son. The bride is the daughter of Mr. M. Jeffers, cashier of the Commercial bank. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson departed for a tour in the west. They will return in about ten days and go to housekeeping on Fifteenth street.

An Important Difference.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a lasting condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. SOCIAL and entertainment at Pythian Castle, corner Twenty-seventh and Chapline streets, Thursday evening, November 19th. Admission, including supper, 25c. For benefit of Baptist Mission.

THE improvements that are now being made along the line of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, between Philadelphia and the Ohio river, are but a forerunner of what is to come. With anything like a prosperous year the work that will be done both on the tracks and in the motive power department, will overshadow all that has previously been done. It is expected that it will take fully two years to put the line in the condition that the receivers desire it to be.

THE superior excellence of the Wheeling Bakery's Bread is acknowledged by all who use it. Sold at your grocers.

The New Way.

Some of the best physicians who have had their eyes examined and investigated Professor Sheff's new scientific method of examining the eyes and fitting glasses without use of drugs and making the patient blind for a week, or having them look at charts, etc., or in any way depend upon the patient, is wonderful and the only absolute remedy for eye troubles. The eyes for glasses. Professor Sheff can be consulted and will examine the eyes free at 1110 Main street.

An Angel of Mercy.

Truly, the miraculous cures of rheumatism made by Salvation Oil, justly earned for it the title: an angel of mercy; for many bed-confined rheumatics have experienced the great, curative properties of this modern liniment. "I used Salvation Oil for rheumatism and found it a sure cure. I used three bottles and am now perfectly well, and I would feel myself a benefactor if I could induce every person afflicted with rheumatism to try Salvation Oil." James H. Bryant, Debrulds, N. C. Salvation Oil is sold everywhere for 25 cents, but some dealers may say, "we are out of it," hoping to sell a cheap substitute instead. Insist on getting Salvation Oil, or go to some other dealer who will sell it to you.
